

Mason & Associates, LLC is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission as an investment adviser. Brokerage and investment advisory services and fees differ and it is important for you to understand the differences. Free and simple tools are available to research firms and financial professionals at Investor.gov/CRS, which also provides educational materials about broker-dealers, investment advisers, and investing.

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

We offer investment advisory services to retail investors, which principally include discretionary and non-discretionary investment management, financial planning, divorce planning and educational seminars. Our discretionary authority to buy, sell, and otherwise transact in securities in your account(s) is granted in our advisory agreement and is only limited by your reasonable restrictions or our mutual ability to terminate the advisory agreement. When providing non-discretionary advisory services, you make the ultimate decision regarding the purchase or sale of investments. We only offer advice with respect to certain types of investments, which generally include mutual funds and exchange traded funds (also known as "ETFs"). We do not offer proprietary products. We generally require a minimum account size of $700,000, subject to negotiation at our discretion.

Regular monitoring of your account(s) is included as part of our standard advisory services, with reviews typically occurring at least annually. It is important that you keep us apprised of your financial situation so we can conduct more frequent reviews if necessary.

More detailed information about our services may be found in Items 4 and 7 of our Form ADV Part 2A brochure.

What fees will I pay?

Retail investors will generally incur the following fees charged by us: investment management fees based on a percentage of your assets under our management (which generally range up to 2.00% per annum), initial financial planning fees charged in amount ranging from $2,500 to $20,000 depending on the nature and complexity of your financial situation, and financial planning fees charged at a fixed rate generally ranging between $100 to $1,000 per month based on the nature and complexity of services rendered. Investment management fees are charged quarterly in arrears, the initial financial planning fee is charged upon plan delivery, and recurring financial planning fees are charged monthly in arrears. Ongoing planning fees are waived for so long as you maintain at least $700,000 in assets under our management, subject to a minimum annual fee of $7,000. To the extent we are engaged to render divorce planning or educational seminars, such fees will typically be fixed as negotiated between us, and charged in arrears.

In addition, retail investors will also generally incur the following fees and costs charged by third-parties: custodian fees, account maintenance fees, product expenses such as internal expense ratios, and transaction charges.

When we charge an asset-based fee, the more assets there are in your account(s), the more you will pay in fees, and we may therefore have an incentive to encourage you to increase the assets in your account(s). When we charge a fixed fee, our fees are typically correlated to the degree of complexity involved in assessing your financial situation, and we may therefore have an incentive to recommend additional complexity with respect to your financial situation.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

More detailed information about our fees and costs may be found in Item 5 of our Form ADV Part 2A brochure.

“Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?”

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.

The custodian(s) and independent adviser(s) we recommend provide us various products and services that are intended to directly benefit you, us, or both of us. To the extent a custodian or an independent adviser provides us products or services that don't directly benefit you, this creates an incentive to recommend that custodian or independent adviser. To learn how we address this incentive, please refer to Items 10 and 12 of our ADV Part 2A brochure.

To the extent we provide financial planning services to you, we have an incentive to recommend that you retain us for investment management services since we would earn additional investment management fees as a result. To learn how we address this incentive, please refer to Item 4 of our ADV Part 2A brochure.

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our financial professionals are compensated based on a salary and a discretionary bonus based on our overall financial performance. Though our financial professionals are registered as investment adviser representatives and registered representatives of Centaurus Financial, Inc. (“CFI”) as of the date of this Relationship Summary, such financial professionals are in the process of disassociating from CFI. Though our financial professionals historically retained the ability to earn a commission from the sale of a securities product through CFI, such additional compensation will be terminated as part of the transition from Centaurus. At such time as the transition from Centaurus is complete, we shall amend this Relationship Summary.
